Working Children

THE CONCERNED FOR WORKING CHILDREN (CWC) is a not-for-profit secular, democratic development agency based in Bengaluru, India. Active since the late 1970s, CWC has been one of the first organisations in India to focus on working children and their needs. Its field programmes in Karnataka cover rural and urban areas in Bangalore, Kundapur Taluk, Bellary district and elsewhere. Widely recognised as a world leader in children's rights, particularly children's right to self determination, CWC was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize in 2012; it is a nominee for the same Prize again this year.
